Wild: The ever increasing concentrations of greenhouse gases threatens to heat up our lakes, dry out our wetlands and turn our forests into a tinderbox. A carbon tax to change behavior, stimulate demand and innovation in the development of a green economy is called for. Where possible we need to preserve MN's biodiversity, which includes protecting wild rice from GMOs. Sustainable timber harvests and jobs for foresters and loggers depend on a stable climate. Recreational uses of our vast public forests, lakes and wetlands attracts tourists, hunter and fishermen from across the state.

Free: The experience of freedom in daily life for most residents is the freedom to travel over publicly built and maintained roads. No one can argue that the State of MN DoT, County and Township road crews do not enhance our freedom in the middle winter. It's often the most evident part of government in our lives. In a district where we've become somewhat estranged from our own government as services recede from small towns and rural townships. We come together to create and sustain government to ensure our own and our neighbors freedoms - freedom to move, freedom from hunger, freedom from fear.

We have an aging population in House District 2A that is discovering that their personal mobility, their ability to get to doctors appointments and the grocery store can be challenging. We need to invest in appropriate public transportation services that will preserve the mobility and the freedom of the elderly and disabled in our small towns and rural communities.

Fair: It's not fair that working families face food and housing insecurity even when they worked their whole lives or to the limits of their ability in the opportunities present to them. Many Minnesotans believe the government services many low-income working families, disabled and elderly are working to make life more fair for them, but many recipients of these services could point to a broken system, where, for example 1-in-5 who qualify for affordable housing voucher programs are unable to find secure housing using those vouchers.

Even the GOP President recently admitted in his State of the Union speech that prescription drug prices are unfair for most Americans. Fairness is a value that even conservatives can resonate with.
